

AMMAN -- The Sustainable Energy and Economic Development in Jordan Project (SEED), funded by Global Affairs Canada (GAC) and the Jordanian government implemented by Cowater International, was recognised for its contributions to supporting energy efficiency and renewable energy (EE& RE) solutions in Jordan. SEED aims to promote ...

AMMAN -- The Energy and Mineral Resources Ministry, in partnership with the German-Jordanian University, on Thursday launched the Energy Innovation Platform (EIP) as the first platform concerned with providing regional sustainable and innovative by facilitating direct swift connections between relevant experts with individuals in different ...

The Sustainable Energy and Economic Development (SEED) project is working to promote sustainable and inclusive growth in Jordan. It was co-financed by Canada and the Jordan Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency Fund and ...

This paper presents a novel study in relation to solar energy use in residential dwellings in Jordan, to discuss the benefits and challenges of using domestic solar energy ...

AMMAN -- The Energy and Mineral Resources Ministry, in partnership with the German-Jordanian University, on Thursday launched the Energy Innovation Platform (EIP) as the first platform concerned with ...

The study investigated the potential for renewable energy resources and energy efficiency measures in Jordan and proposed solutions that could be implemented to promote sustainable energy practices. They examined how well different types of renewable energy, like wind, solar, and biomass, could work and how well they could fit into the country ...

This paper presents a novel study in relation to solar energy use in residential dwellings in Jordan, to discuss the benefits and challenges of using domestic solar energy systems within the current context of increasing energy prices.

The Sustainable Energy and Economic Development (SEED) project is working to promote sustainable and inclusive growth in Jordan. It was co-financed by Canada and the Jordan Renewable Energy and Energy Efficiency Fund and implemented by Cowater.

EEES has considerable potential for proficiency in the markets of photovoltaic energy and environmentally sustainable technologies besides inherent long-lasting work in the field of energy ...

With the Ministry of Energy and Mineral Resources" ambition to improve energy efficiency by 9% across various sectors by 2030, the Super ESCO model aligns perfectly with Jordan"s strategic...

Web: <https://www.gennergyps.co.za>