Why should a Bess plant integrate with existing power systems?

As BESS plants offering grid-forming capability in island grids are integrated in existing power systems, most projects require a lot of related engineering services and customizations. Even when the technical solution is mature, the project specific integration is an important work to be considered.

Can a battery power plant be used as a backbone?

As grid-tied large-scale battery power plants are becoming more and more popular for providing frequency control services they may also be used for additional services. Using the battery power plant as a backbone for Island operation can allow to operate an isolated grid in case of disturbances in the overlaid grid.
