

How much do solar charge controllers cost?

MPPT solar charge controllers have a higher cost compared to PWM charge controllers. They cost between about $100 to $700. What size charge controller do I need? Charge controllers are sized based on the solar array's current and the solar system's voltage.

Do I need a charge controller for a small solar panel?

A charge controller is not necessary for small solar panels producing 1 to 5 watts of solar power. However, it is required for solar battery systems producing more than five watts of solar power or having more than 100 amp-hours of capacity.

What types of solar charge controllers are available?

We feature a wide range of both MPPT and PWM solar charge controllers. See the BlueSolar and SmartSolar Charge Controller MPPT - Overview. In our MPPT model names, for example MPPT 75/50, the first number is the maximum PV open circuit voltage. The second number, 50, is the maximum charge current.

What is a PWM solar charge controller?

PWM solar charge controllers are great for small systems where efficiency is not essential. They are common in RV, boat, and camping solar systems. They do a great job protecting the battery but they 'waste' some power. A 12V solar panel will typically output 16V-18V of power depending on the weather.

What is a PowMr inverter & solar charge controller?

The PowMr inverter and solar charge controller is designed for use with medium to large off-grid solar systems. Let's start with the MPPT charge controller. It has a max current rating of 80A, making it compatible with a large solar panel array.
