Can you spray paint solar panels?

Unlike traditional solar panels, it's extremely easy to scale solar paint - using the same spray gun, you can just spray a smaller or larger area. In contrast, to make a larger solar installation with traditional solar panels, you need more bracing, wires, panels, etc - requiring more time and finances to plan and install.

What are spray-on solar panels made of?

Spray-on solar panels are made from nanoparticles called quantum dots and a conducting polymer. These materials are mixed together to create a plastic that can be sprayed on. This spray-on solar panel material is lighter, stronger, cleaner, and generally less expensive than most other solar cells in production today.

What is photovoltaic paint?

This is the idea behind photovoltaic paint, a radical new application for solar cells that is easy to apply, can be installed almost anywhere, and is cost-effective. Sounds like something in the distant future, right? Not quite.

Could spray-on panels be incorporated into buildings?

Spray-on solar panels could be incorporated into buildings themselves, not just rooftops, similar to the solar technology of today. One day you may buy clothing with solar film woven into the fabric.

Can spray-on solar panels be used to power electric cars?

Spray-on solar panels could potentially be used to charge the battery of an electric car. They will be sold as a hydrogen film that can be applied as a coating to materials, including cars. Similar to the solar technology of today, they could be incorporated into buildings themselves, not just rooftops.

Could hydrogen-collecting solar paint be a cost-effective way to collect hydrogen?

If they reach the point where they are ready for commercial use, this hydrogen-collecting solar paint might just be an environmentally friendly and cost-effective way to collect hydrogen for producing energy. Scientists that have helped NREL set a new efficiency record of 13.4% for a quantum dot solar cell.
