

Does the government offer free solar panels?

The government does not have any programs that offer totally free solar panels. However, several state and federal government programs can help you access solar energy equipment with lower upfront costs. These tax credits and incentives can reduce solar installation costs, making solar energy more accessible.

Are 'free' solar panels a good idea?

Companies often offer "free" solar panels through leases or power purchase agreements (PPAs), where they install and maintain the panels at no upfront cost. "Free" solar panels can result in initial savings on your energy bills, but in the long run, the savings may not be as significant as owning your solar panels outright.

Where can I get free solar panels?

Some local cities and counties also offer direct rebates to help with the upfront costs of solar panel installations. If you're looking for free solar panels, or at least solar panels with less cost upfront, solar leases, solar loans, and community solar are good options.

Can you get a tax credit if you buy solar panels?

"The federal government does not have any programs that install solar panels on the homes of Americans for free," Jones-Albertus wrote. "A 30% tax credit is available to those who purchase a solar energy system."

What do solar companies mean by 'free'?

What Do Solar Companies Mean by "Free"? When companies advertise free solar, they are generally referring to either a solar lease or solar power purchase agreement (PPA). In both cases, a company installs solar photovoltaic (PV) panels on your home, often with no up-front costs and no money down.
