Is installing solar panels illegal in any state?

Technically, no state outlaws or bans solar panels; quite the opposite. Most states have solar access laws that forbid any agreement, covenant, condition, bylaw, or contract that outlaws or limits solar installations by Homeowners Associations (HOA) or other municipal bodies.

Can a Hoa deny a request to install solar panels?

Your HOA may deny your request to get solar panels installed in your home because they alter the look of your roof. Some states have enacted solar access laws that prohibit HOAs from denying your request to install solar panels.

Are solar panels a viable option?

However, some states still make installing solar panels functionally impossible by creating laws with "reasonable restrictions," such as increased taxing, energy caps, or even billing solar panel users. Combine these laws with a lack of incentive programs, and solar panels are not viable for homeowners in many states.

Can a hoa ban solar?

A law in Illinois says HOAs can't ban solar installations but can adjust their placement as long as it doesn't reduce the expected production by 10% or more. In 2023, 21 states still have no solar access laws prohibiting HOAs from outright banning solar installations, although efforts to change that are underway in a number of these places.

Do HOAs allow solar panels?

When you install solar, your HOA has the right to make sure you or your installer have all the necessary permits to operate, your panels meet certain design requirements, or dictate the placement of your solar panels. Some HOAs allow solar panels but only if they're placed on the back of the home's roof so it's not visible from the street.

Should CC&Rs prohibit solar panels?

Homeowners will only invest in the expense of solar panels if they have "legally recognized protection to install a solar system . . ." Prohibiting CC&Rs from restricting solar energy systems would give homeowners surety and encourage solar development.
