

Can you store condensate in a storage facility?

anyway.. when you have access to the condensate storage you can store it,you can make multiple trips into leap of faith,get some,bring it to your storage facility and distribute it...

How do you produce a condensate?

You don't actually produce the condensate,you merely collect it (manually) from the ancient object that produces it. Once you transport it back to network space,via whichever means you choose,you can then automate its distribution. Originally posted by null ():

How many condensate transports can a behemoth carry?

FYI: you could,theoretically,load 44 Condensate transportsonto a Behemoth and transport them all through at the same time. Get two of these "fleets" and you could exchange them every hour IF you could figure out the timing.

One option is to commit to manually hauling back loads of condensate and single-handedly keep Avarice alive. The other is to ally with two annoying space-suit-bomb-magnets in awful, awful suits. I find neither appealing. Say I went with a third option. What happens to the NPC stations if I kill the twins and ignore the condensate racket entirely?

The blueprint you steal is for a condensate storage module (under the storage section in the build menu). You don't actually produce the condensate, you merely collect it (manually) from the ancient object that produces it.

Condensate Storage is only obtained in the Avarice mission line by selecting a specific choice. It is also worth noting that the Protectyon Shield Generator is a storage module by itself, and can store 5 Protectyon.

The station in LoF spits out Condensate. The Astrid can carry something about 400+ Condensate. The storage module can store a good amount of it. You're supposed to jump into LoF once an hour to get 400+ Condensate, transport it back and store it until it is sold.

Special ships are needed to move protectyon around, normal container traders cannot move condensate. It is unclear if protectyon has any value or use outside of protecting stations in Avarice, other than for pre-charging shielding of ...
